

Press release
La Casa del Habano post 1st July smoking ban

Boutique

La Casa del Habano, the cigar boutique in Soho, would like to confirm that the retail area of the venue will be exempt from the smoking ban under the specialist tobacconist clause. This exemption permits the sampling of cigars purchased on site.

Customers can choose to sample from an unrivalled selection of fine Havana cigars - from an El Rey del Mundo Demi Tasse at £3.90 to a Cohiba Double Corona at £33 or rarities such as the Library Collection Trinidad Torre Iznaga at £50, before splashing out on a whole box. Martin Oravec, the boutique's cigar sommelier is on hand to provide expert guidance.

Exclusively at La Casa del Habano, customers can opt for hand rolled cigars, prepared to suit their individual tastes by the in-house cigar roller (Torcedora), arguably the best way to enjoy a cigar. There is also a facility for customers to keep cigars in a personal humidor.

The boutique offers seating for up to ten people and customers will be able to relax whilst sampling cigars and enjoy refreshments of tea, coffee and water.

Bar and Lounge

The adjoining La Casa del Habano bar and lounge is a smoke free area and continues to serve an extensive selection of drinks. The list includes classics like martinis and cosmopolitans or those with a twist like mojitos made with pineapple and sage or Cuban cocktails with tobacco infused rum, £7.50. Wines and Champagnes are available by the glass or bottle.

To accompany the extensive range of drinks, a tapas menu has been designed, ideal for sharing. Tempting portions of crispy pork belly at £4.50, scallops with chorizo at £8.00 and a variety of meats, cheese and breads are available.

Opening hours: 10:30am to 11:00pm Monday to Saturday.
